What is SPM?

By 13211212 陈石峰

Zhejiang Normal University
Software Project Management

Abstract

What is SPM? SPM is a sub-discipline of project management in which software projects are planned, monitored and controlled.

Keyword

SPM，software，project，management，plan

Firstly, The Object is a software engineering projects. It involves the scope covers the whole process of software engineering .

SPM is to make the software project can successfully completed according to the predetermined cost, schedule and quality , and it is the project analysis and management activities.

In other words,SPM is a sub-discipline of project management in which software projects are planned, monitored and controlled.

Normally,If a team want to finish a software project successfully,they will have to manage the project.They will need to have the ability of project management.The sub-discipline SPM can teach you, how to manage a software project, and   finished it in a planned way.